WICHITA, Kans., Oct. 11.—William Allen White, independent candidate for governor, is standing Kansas on its ears. Right and left, through the state the Emporia editor is campaigning. Drawing enormous crowds, entertaining them with his quaint philosophy and keen humor, his philosophy and sound humor, and giving the veteran politicians of both the Republican and Democratic parties more worries than they have had in a generation about the state ticket.

vote for him anyway. It's a typical Kansas year. Nobody knows how the election for governor will go. White may carry the state by 50,000 and he may be snowed under. It's difficult to estimate what will happen.

The chances are against Will White's success if the mathematics of the voting can be accepted. The Democrats are strong in their support

Ben Paulsen, the Republican nominee for governor, was a

Now, seven years after his "death," she has located him in "Robert St. Clair" for the last eighteen months a prisoner in the Federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., where, a weakened, pale-faced veteran of the World War, he is fighting for his life against disease. ## RECEPTION AND PURSE FOR REV. BEALL AND WIFE

A farewell surprise party was given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Beall at the parsonage of James Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church at Vanderhill last evening by members of the Epworth League, who invited the congregation of the church to help in carrying out the program.

A purse was presented to the pastor as a token of the congregation's appreciation for his faithful service during the past year. The minister and his wife were busy preparing to move when the members of the church came to the home.

An excellent program was carried out. William Gray led in the singing of "Love Thine Me," after which Lloyd Shallenberger, secretary of the official board of the church, presented Rev. and Mrs. Beall with a purse. The surprise, the unexpectedness of it, was confusing to the pastor who tried to reply and show his appreciation. Mrs. Beall, in a very happy way, gave her thanks.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Dut words are tedious, and a small drop of ink, falling like dew upon a thought, produces that which makes thousands, perhaps millions think.

WAYS WITH FOOD

A potato salad may be varied with different vegetables and seasonings so that one may serve it often and always have a new one.

Potato Salad.
Cut up cold, boiled potatoes into small cubes, the smaller the better if not allowed to become mushy. As bits of potato are not easily penetrated with dressing if too large. Mix with a pint of potato cubes, one small, finely chopped or diced onion, add three tablespoons of olive or vegetable oil and one tablespoon of vinegar; mix well, adding a half-teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of cayenne. A half cupful of cooked corn left from dinner may be added, or the same amount of peas, or corned beef, or a little peanut butter may be added to the salad as mayonaisse dressing which is added just before serving.

Cabbage and Carrot Salad.—Take a small, hard head of cabbage, cut in half and put it through the meat grinder, adding the coarse knife—with three or four small, well scraped carrots. Serve on lettuce and garnish with small, yellow tomatoes, cut into quarters.

Prune and Lettuce Salad.—Soak a pound of prunes in cold water overnight, after washing well; in the morning simmer until the prunes are tender, adding a little lemon juice. Slice and arrange as whole as possible on heart leaves of lettuce. Serve with a spoonful of French dressing and a spoonful of mayonaisse at the side of the salad. A bit of peanut butter or a few minced peanuts may be used for stuffing the prunes. If desired, as the two flavors are especially palatable.

Apricot Honey.—Drain without paring very ripe apricots, cook with just enough water to keep them from sticking, until reduced to a pulp. Rub the fruit through a fine sieve and to each pint allow three-fourths of a pound of sugar; cook the pulp five minutes, then add the sugar, which should be heated hot; cook until thick, stirring often. Pour into sterilized glasses.

Fog Destroys Audibility
Dense fog has a peculiar property of reducing or destroying audibility within certain zones. Marine disasters along coasts are sometimes due to the fact that sound signals which are plainly audible during clear weather cannot be heard within certain zones of silence when the sounding object is surrounded by dense fog. A recent example is that of the steamer Siberian at Prince of Wales, which was on the rocks at Hontwick Island during a dense fog while the fog signal at Race rocks nearby was in operation. Subsequent investigation revealed the fact that the sound of the signal could be heard at this point in clear weather, but not during a dense fog.

Glenn Curtiss Says "It's Surprising!"

After a demonstration in the new Willys-Knight Sedan equipped with the Lanchester Balancer, the famous aeroplane builder said—"It's surprising. I drove the car at all speeds up to 50 miles an hour and found absolutely no engine vibration."

Vibrationless Motoring

Automobile engineers have been striving for many years to lay the ghost of vibration—but it has remained for the Willys-Knight to bring to the United States the secret of vibrationless engine running.

The Lanchester Balancer—a great discovery by a great genius—the invention of Dr. F. W. Lanchester, F.R.S., of Great Britain, builder of one of the world's most expensive motor cars.

With this new ingenuity of engineering, Willys-Knight achieves positive engine smoothness at all speeds. A smoothness almost incredible to the thousands and thousands of automobile owners who have always thought vibration in a car to be a necessary evil.

This achievement is all the more notable for being sponsored by a car with so many other great achievements to its credit. Willys-Knight long since ended the days of valve-grinding and carbon-cleaning—and the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine is known around the world as the engine that improves with use.

Leading engineering authorities, car owners, the public generally, are impressed by Willys-Knight's vibrationless performance. A ride is a new thrill—a new experience—a new conception of motoring pleasure. Take a ride today!

TO MEET WITH MEXICANS

Who Will Convene Just Across the Border at the Summer Session for a Regular Labor Party May Develop; Pan American Meet in Mexico

By PAUL VAN EYBURY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The American Federation of Labor, which has consistently refused to treat with the Third International, is now turning with energy toward closer cooperation with organized labor throughout the western hemisphere.

Plans for the coming convention of the Federation, to be held in El Paso, Texas, November 17, indicate the chief feature of the gathering would be the emphasis laid on increasingly friendly relations with labor in Mexico and everywhere in Latin America.

El Paso was chosen as convention city primarily because it is on the Mexican border. At the same time the American labor gathering is under way, the Mexico Federation of Labor will be meeting in its convention just across the line. On at least two days of the double convention the American Federation will meet with the Mexican Federation, first on the American side, and then on the Mexican side. Appropriate ceremonies will be conducted on the international bridge, symbolizing the friendly spirit existing between the two nations.

Mexican and U. S. Labor.
The increasing cooperation between organized labor in Mexico and the United States is seriously regarded here as one of the most important factors in improving relations between the two countries. Organized labor in Mexico has been strongly supporting the Oregon government. The sympathy of the American Federation for Oregon during the recent revolt was received with warm gratitude by labor in Mexico. All these developments have paved the way for the double convention which is expected further to solidify the good feeling not only between labor in the two countries but between the people themselves.

But cooperation with Mexican labor is not expected to be the only result of the El Paso convention. Less than two weeks later the Pan American Federation of Labor including representatives of ten countries in the two Americas will be held at Mexico City, at the time of the inauguration of President-elect Calles.

Many delegates to the Mexico and American conventions will probably continue to Mexico City to attend the later meeting. Organized labor of the United States, Mexico, San Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, San Domingo, Peru, Ecuador, Guatemala and Columbia will be represented at the Mexico City convention by according delegates and representatives from all Central American and South American nations have been invited.

One of the results of this closer cooperation among labor organizations in the two Americas, it is believed here, will be a tendency for the development of the labor movement in Latin America along liberal but somewhat conservative lines. It is prob-

Entries in League Wanted.
Only three entries have been made to date in the town bowling league that is to be formed. The Aces, Athletic Club and Turnstones, are the only teams entered in the league. Nicholas Cavalcade, scores team entries before the 15th of this month in order to get the schedule under way by November 1.

Ireland's First Envoy Visits Coolidge

Hon. T. A. Smiddy, first accredited Irish Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary from the Free State to the United States, is shown leaving the White House in Washington after presenting his official credentials and being received by President Coolidge.

able the interest exhibited by the Americans and American federations may go far toward counteracting the more radical influence of the European labor movements.

A Labor Party?
However, the international aspects of the El Paso convention are not expected to prove the sole important developments. Federation leaders here are of the opinion agitation for a formal Labor Party in the United States will find expression on the floor. A formidable favor of the Federation is known to favor the idea, though the Gompers administration has generally discouraged it.

In the event the LaFollette ticket, even though it does not win in the election, proves to have unusual strength, it is expected the demand for a regular Labor Party in politics will be redoubled. This question brought up at El Paso may develop into a rift in the career of the Federation.

The demand for the launching of a Labor Party will undoubtedly have a direct bearing on the candidacy of Samuel Gompers, veteran president of the organization, for re-election. Gompers has been president of the Federation for more than a quarter of a century. He has guided its affairs through the years of its greatest development. At every convention he has been opposed for re-election by factions of varying strength. And always he has overcome all opposition. There is no doubt at present Gompers' candidacy for re-election.

Even if he were contemplating retirement it is felt in labor circles here that on account of the serious issue of the formation of a Labor Party being raised, he will feel it necessary to continue as guide of the organization for which he has worked so many years.

ALMOST ANYTHING LIKELY TO HAPPEN KANSAS ELECTION

Minority selection in the primaries. He comes from the standpoint section of the Republican party. The Progressives divided their votes. It isn't often that a Progressive is eliminated in a Kansas primary. He will White, who is a Progressive of Progressives, is expected to corral all the Republicans who voted for some one else than Paulsen in the primary.

Kansas has a habit of voting against things. Will White's vote will be large. It will be a big protest. Although he has announced his support of President Coolidge, there are many observers who feel that if Kansas turns upside down this year and elects William Allen White, Mr. Coolidge may be found on the same ballot to have lost the state.

With a mixed-up situation in which very few voters are really stating their preferences, and with a LaFollette vote by no means inconsiderable, Kansas may well be put down as an enigma this year.

Unquestionably the race for governor is overshadowing the contest for the electoral vote of the state. All sorts of combinations are to be found on canvassing the voters. There are some who say they will vote for President Coolidge, William Allen White and the Democratic representative in Congress from this district—William A. Ayers. Others are voting for LaFollette for president, Jonathan Davis for governor and former Senator Chester Long, the Republican conservative who is contesting for Ayers' seat. Under those circumstances, experienced politicians who know Kansas are throwing up their hands and shrugging their shoulders. Anything may happen—that's Kansas.

There's a somewhat different viewpoint here, to be sure, than is to be found in Topeka. Labor is more vocal here and there is more LaFollette talk than is heard elsewhere. William Allen White has the endorsement of most of the newspapers in Kansas and those that are not out and out supporters are very friendly in their attitude. So far as the newspapers are concerned, they are printing Will White's speeches fully and they no longer regard his candidacy as a joke. He is a symbol of protest now and perhaps if he had more time to so to campaign in every county of the state, he would win hands down, as it is the governorship battle that is stirring the state.

Kansas, while not affirmatively enthusiastic for President Coolidge, nevertheless shows little hostility to him. Here in Wichita, the prevailing opinion among the well-informed men who can subordinate their partisan ship in a fair analysis of the situation, is that Mr. Coolidge will carry the state.

SENATORS WIN WORLD SERIES WITH JOHNSON

Prince of Pitchers, in Relief Role, Gets Credit for Big Victory.

GAME SENSATIONAL ONE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Washington Americans are the world's baseball champions.

The Senators won the deciding game from the Giants, 4-3, in 12 innings yesterday.

Walter Johnson, prince of pitchers, who had been relegated to the discard with nothing but a memory of his fine sportsmanship qualities remaining, won the game and last night and today the National Capital was in a state of frenzied joy.

The pitching ace went on the mound in the ninth and worked four frames during which time he bore down with an energy that made the fans forget two defeats which he had suffered in his other attempts. Johnson may, however, be through in the major leagues.

Each team used four twirlers. The wands were in pandemonium when Johnson went on the mound with the score tied. He was in "hot water" when Frisch tripled but purposely passed Young and fanned Kelly. He worked the same combination in the twelfth.

Washington took the lead when Harris got a homer in the fourth. Then in the sixth the Senator infield went to pieces and errors gave the Giants two runs while a third was earned. Things were tied up in the eighth when Harris singled for his third hit, scoring two runs. From that time on the situation was nerve-racking.

In the twelfth Miller popped out. Then Washington got a break as Gowdy muffed Ruel's out. On the next pitch the batter doubled. Johnson safe on Jackson's error and McNeely was at bat. Following him was Harris and home team supporters were sitting on the edges of their seats hoarse from constant shouting. Then McNeely doubled the ball, bounding over Lindstrom's head as he was all set for a double killing. Washington had won!

The climax rivaled anything ever seen on a baseball field. The fans went wild and rushed onto the diamond, engulfing the ball players. Harris, beating the crowd that surged towards McNeely, threw his arms about the middlefielder, and hugged him lightly, even kissing him.

Efforts of police to restore order were given up. The officers joined the multitude in rejoicing. Straw hats having passed from style the wildly excited rooters tossed their new autumn headwear about in reckless fashion.

SAILORS SEE WHALE AND SWORDFISH FIGHT

Also Witness Great Mobilization of Porpoises and Most Perfect
Water-pour.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Whites so thick they resembled shoals, and porpoises so numerous their fleeting backs resembled miles of cobblestone highways, were reported sighted off Lower California by Capt. Fred S. Hayes, captain of the Katherine Luckenbach, which visited this city recently.

A whole school of porpoises romped and played all night long just ahead of the captain's ship, their sides making a beautiful sight as they glided in the reflections from the phosphorus in that part of the sea, according to the captain.

Several of the crew described a fight between a whale and a swordfish and a thrasher, which must have been a thriller. The thrasher ran ahead and hammered the whale's nose with his ripping bill, while the swordfish endeavored to lance the big fellow's vent from beneath. Every few minutes the whale let forth a mighty boom like a

"Jokes" in Wills

The gaiety of the French often runs into practical jokes; many of these have found their way into wills. A practical joker who died at Rouen some three centuries ago expressed the wish that representatives of the four orders of the Mendicant monks should accompany his coffin, each carrying four large candles—which he had provided in advance. It was done, but at the most solemn moment of the funeral service the big candles exploded, scattering fire, smoke and consternation all around. They were all loaded like trick cigars. A rich Frenchman who died at Constantinople left his fortune to a nephew and niece in France—but to be given to them only after they had ridden all the way to Constantinople on a tandem bicycle to get it. They were young and strong, and they did it.

He's All Forehead

Collette—My daddy knows more than yours does. You can tell because he's got a high forehead; it takes up half of his face.

Nini—But you've never seen my daddy's forehead. Why, it's so high that it goes all the way around and meets his neck behind.

Accidental

"I don't know what claim you have for this accident," said the agent. "You were thrown out of the car, but by your own statement you were not hurt."

"Well, wasn't it by the merest accident that I escaped injury?" returned the claimant.

Emu Perfect Example of "Henpecked" Male

Among the Australian emu emancipated females are the rule. Here the lady does the courting, which consists largely of a loud booming. The emu is a very irregular layer, depositing her big green eggs at intervals of from two days to a week. No nest is built, and it is the duty of the harnessed male to follow her movements and to cover the eggs with bits of straw or grass, so that they may have at least some protection, says Leo S. Cranfill in the Mentor.

The clutch varies from two to as many as eighteen eggs; just how the male keeps track of them all is still a mystery. When he feels that no more are to follow he scops a shallow hollow in the ground and gathers into it his scattered treasures. Then he busily begins the process of incubation, a task which lasts for eight weeks—the longest incubation period known to birds. When the babies emerge he lavishes on them an attention that no mother could excel. This great bird, nearly as large as an ostrich, leading a flock of chicks, might serve as a perfect example of motherly solicitude. He guards his children for a year and a half, leaving them only to yield to the persuasive "boon" that again binds his neck to the yoke. While her downtrodden mate is "keeping the home together" the mother emu is roaming the country "booming" for another mate.

The Paramount

In a recent vote taken to determine the most popular western star, J. B. Warner walked away with all the glory. His meteoric rise to fame during the last year is little less than phenomenal. His popularity is well deserved because it comes from real ability, his sincerity in giving the public the best that is in him and his marvelous personality. All of these attributes are but reflections of the man himself in personal and private life. Every J. B. Warner picture has been a real revelation and the producers claim that "Horse Shoe Luck" his latest contribution to the screen, outdoes all his former achievements. This picture is at the Paramount.

The Soisson

Not the least interesting—nor yet the least capable—of the players in "Being Respectable" the Warner Bros. screen classic which is at the Soisson today is Virginia Loomis, the four-year-old young lady who is literally the piece de resistance in the big climax of the play. Little Miss Loomis is a member of the vaudeville team known as the Loomis Twins who are particularly well known throughout the West.

From the time she learned to walk and talk the youngster seems to have been in theatricals like a duck takes to water and the artistic progress she has made in four short years is nothing less than marvelous. Her acting is a hundred to one that she will have her name in big letters on the nation's billboards before she is ten years older.

The Orpheum

LADIES TO BOARD—Supported by an excellent cast, Tom Mix makes his final appearance in "Ladies to Board" at the Orpheum Theatre tonight. The picture proves to be another laugh provoker on a par with "Scott Bled" with plenty of action and Mexican thrills.

With Pee Wee Holmes as a partner Mix inherits an old ladies home and, starting with this situation, the story is one big laugh after another interspersed with most warming action. Mix does some death defying stunts ten stories in the air on the structural work of a sky scraper and rides Tony with his characteristic recklessness and trick horsemanship.

In the cast are Gertrude Olmsted playing opposite the star, Phil McCullough, the heavy, Gertrude Olmsted, Fay Holderness and Dolores Doucette.

The Arcade

Mason Brothers mammoth production of the immortal drama "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be presented at the Arcade Theatre the week of October 13 matinee and night. This is the most correct and impressive scenic production of Harriet Beecher Stowe's everlasting legacy to posterity ever seen in America. It is the only version that is accepted by the public as a moral uplift. There are 30 people and 27 scenes in the play which is the complete original production.

Odd Japanese Custom

Fixing Age of Babies

Japanese babies are precious for they are a year old the moment they are born, and two years old the first New Year's day, writes Carroll Y. Zimmerman in Babyhood. That is the way the Japanese reckon age, counting the year in which the baby is born one, the next year two, and so on. If you had been born in Japan just as the temple gong was about to boom on the night of December 31, you would be, according to the Japanese mind, two years old with the first resounding clang.

So in Nippon, one of a pair of twins might indeed be a year older than the other, or an addition of another year to a person's age on January 1, irrespective of the actual month of his birth, came about in this way: When in 1870 the Japanese calendar was changed to conform to the European, the people at large could not understand why they should be done out of their real, as opposed to the official new year, and so, at the beginning of February, the same thing starts again, and everybody considers it his duty to celebrate the occasion just as his ancestors did.

Prepared for the Worst.
Jones had found a slip of paper on his lawn. It was an accurate and detailed plan of his private office. The exact position of the stairs was noted. Notes showed which doors swung in and which swung out. Even the windows were set down. Jones was alarmed.

"Some burglar must be going to raid my office," he told his family. "Oh, that isn't it," cried his daughter, glancing at the sketch. "Those notes are in Jack's handwriting. He's coming down to your office to ask you to let him marry me."

On Contentious People

STRIKING A SNAG.

It's supposed I require all kinds of people I make a world, but we can't see where contentious people come in—snarling, belligerent, argumentative, disagreeable, contentious people.

Contentious people are not partial to any certain climate, or topography, or society. They thrive in little towns and big towns, and they're engaged in all kinds of activities.

We find contentious people wherever we go, at cornerstone laying, wedding, conventions, and even standing around where a safe is being moved, or a post hole is being dug.

Contentious people have no warm friends. They're tolerated, but not liked. They're often seen with others, but they're tagged along.

While there is no room in this cheerful, big world for contentious people, they're here and are supposed to be for some good purpose, just the same as the skunk and the hornet. Of course the skunk is here on account of its fur, but we don't quite like it.

We don't have to be an anemic or out of luck, I'm contentious, as many people who ought to be tickled to death are contentious.

We meet highly successful contentious people, and that's one of the causes of the widespread dissatisfaction over the supposed equal distribution of the good things of this life, and one reason why we believe in the element of luck.

Contentious people are allies failures as candidates, husbands, and clerks.

Contentious people's time is mostly taken up handling new associates. They make friends, but they don't keep 'em long.

Contentious people often get beat up, and it's no uncommon thing to see 'em with flattened noses, gold front teeth, and not infrequently with one eye off the job.

Contentiousness springs from a natural, inborn desire, often amounting to a craze. I take issue, I combat, I question, I belittle, I stir up, I argue with the other fellow—even at picnics, at funerals, in hospitals, at wedding receptions, at marshmallow parties, on the street corners, in the quiet precincts of the home.

Wash Pusey was the most contentious fellow we ever knew. His wife killed him with a fork. It got so he had to go out of town to get in a conversation. He had one fairly good eye, but had not used his nose for years. He was in the mail order business or he never could have made a living.

We remember of Art Smiley saying: "I wash years ago, when he was just starting out to be contentious, that Elmer Swank, who'd won a gold watch in a tri-state corn shucking contest was a good corn shucker, and right off the bat, he said, 'Fair, yet, but he comes a long way from being what's called a fancy shucker.'"

1,800-MILE CANOE TRIP VIA OCEAN ROUTE.

George R. G. Smith, a mining engineer of Toronto, Can., has arrived in New York after a 1,800-mile canoe trip from Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia. His canoe weighed but fifty-five pounds and was fifteen feet long and had a beam of thirty-two inches. He made the journey in forty-three days of actual paddling. He declared he intends to cross the Atlantic Ocean in the canoe to win a lot.

Here's what the Chinese think about Paying Bills

WE in America send Roofing, Rivets and Radio Sets over to China, regularly. However, when it comes to Credit and Payment of Bills, the Celestial Sons have a satisfactory brand all of their own, thank you.

Failure to live up to an obligation is considered a disgrace in China. The duty to pay promptly is so deeply grained in the Oriental Code that any evader becomes a social outcast.

Sometimes, we over in America are lax in meeting our obligations. Whether this is caused by carelessness or any other reason, it is always sure to impose a burden on someone else. Besides this, it is harmful to the gully party. On the records of fifteen thousand merchants all over the country, he—or she—is regarded as "slow pay," and the ability to secure credit is impaired.

The stores of Connellsville extend credit for your convenience. They want you to get the fullest possible benefit from it. However, out of fairness to them as well as protection to you, they ask that you meet the payments in the manner that you agreed.
